WHERE ARE THE COMMITMENTS
AT PRESENT
Jim Hamilton, a mining engineer for Diatex called this date regarding the review status of the mining and reclamation plan for the above operation. Expect a call from him Friday morning (22nd). Please route the plan and assemble the comments from Lee, Mary Ann, Wayne, and Tom T. for a response back to Diatex ASAP.

Diatex will be bringing in a DOE for the interim period next week, with details ~~and~~ their plan of operation for testing an enclosed system, as well as commitments to reclaim the area as a part of their overall project. The DOE will be confined to existing disturbances at the Dewey Bridge location rather than going upstream to an undisturbed location where no reclamation would be required. Allowing them to test the system at their present location will limit the disturbance and give us more control in their activities and reclamation of the area.

I had hoped for presentation of the Executive Summary to the Board this month, but don't see how. Please try to have this (and Pencol's plans) ready for next month. Thanks.

If you have any questions, ask.
